Warships Ready To Evacuate Americans From S. China

Aboard The U.S. Flagship El Dorado off China, May 20.—The United States Navy in China waters now will establish its readiness to evacuate Americans who may want to leave South China, Vice Admiral Oscar Badger said today.

States forces in the West Pacific revealed that he expected to confer soon with Mr Lewis Clark, head of the Canton branch of the United States Embassy on the general South China situation. The conference is expected to take up possible emergency evacuation of some 400 Americans in the Cardon area already reported

In_a_review_of_naval_operations, a Nationalist Navy spokesman estimated that more than 15,000 Communist troops were killed by naval gunfire in the past week when warships helped to smash Red attacks on the Woosung-Pootung front. He revealed that the Commander-in-Chief of the Navy, Admiral Kwei Yung-ching, was personally directing defensive operations.

The lull continued yesterday on the southern and western perimeters with both sides reported to be bringing up reinforcements for the next round of the battle for Hungjao airfield while in the northern suburb the Communists threw two regiments against Chinese Government's Rauto Administration building Liuhang but they called-off the attack after eight fruitless "human sea" charges, according to the Central News.

The Nationalist Air Force announced yesterday that a "few" Government planes were hit by Communist anti-aircraft fire during low-flying strafing missions on Wednesday but that all of them managed to return to their base safely.

THE Chinese Communists are taking on astonishingly long time to accomplish what once appeared to be a comparatively simple task-the capture of Shanghai. There are indications, in fact, that they have been forced, by circumstances for which they had not previously made provision, of changing their strategy, and are now depending more on a successful crossing of the Whangpoo from Pootung rather than the investment of Woosung from the north and west. And if this proves to be the case, it will be to the credit of the Nationalists that they have offered sufficient resistance to force the Communists into this new line of attack. Having made that acknowledgment, it still remains to be observed that there are no impressive signs that the Communists can be prevented from achleving their objective. The .two predominant posers are: how long will it take them to capture Shanghai? And to what extent, if any, the city is to be subjected to military assault? The Bund, which contains an important section of foreign business houses, has been sealed off by the city police and manned by Nationalist troops. The move can be attributed to a variety of reasons: the Authorities may fear a bombardment from Pootung and are endeavouring to avoid heavy casualties thong the civilian population; they may. by anticipating an attempted landing by Communist forces from across the river at that point; or it may be just a gesture, trying to show a bold front when all other hope has been surrendered. Whatever the motive or intention the action brings home to the foreign community in Shanghal (if any emphasis were needed) that the civil war is on their doorsteps, and that it-might proveextremely uncomfortable before it resolves itself. The encroachment of Nationalist defences into an area essentially foreign is a reminder to British and other non-Chinese nationals in WO films now showing in the West End of London illustrate admirably the way British studios are achieving a national idiom compounded of integrity of style, distinctive quality and a native sense of drama.

If the equable and gracious Miss Loy can bring herself to throw blame where it is due, she should not forget the script writer who has unloaded some cliche-ridden and corny stuff on her. He is her husband, Gene Markey.

Peggy Cummins, despite a terrible Irish-English-American accent, shows signs of being once again something like the actress she was years ago on the London stage. She must be 20 now if she's a day.

Couldn't Be Sillier

IF films can be much sillier than "The Golden Madonna" I don't want to have it proved ; to . me. . Phyllis Calvett and Michael Rennie spin out a bloodless romance while they search Naples and Capri for a missing picture. They find it, as we never doubted they would, at very long last.

What's Wrong With Ford? WHAT'S come over John Ford, the man who made "The Informer" and "Stage Coach"? His "Fugitive" was laden with symbolism and did not come off. His latest, "Three Godfathers" is a wider miss. For half an hour it is a goodish Western (in pleasant colour) about three bank robbers. Then it turns to low comedy when they find themselves nanny-ing a baby. After an hour it switches again-and believe it or not a parallel is drawn with the three wise men, the sear in the

with overseas visitors,
The British Industries Fair is proving a hugo night" is shortly to take place, to boost our export trade. Dozens of firms will be "at home" to overseas buyers during the Fortnight. And with London invaded colourful Malayan women, exotic Chinese girls, dark-eyed Indians in shimmering saris, and sun-tanned Americans, is it any wonder we are all developing a violent wander-lust?

showerproof gabardine, falling in generous folds from the shoulders. It was worn over a turquoise-blue "Hebecord" suit-(like wide whipcord). The skirt was box-pleated widely all round. The second was a natural gabardine extremely tailored, with wide belt and pleated skirt. It was worn over a gally checked tweed skirt and red twinset.

Experiments in unusual colour combinations were made. Most popular is lemon and grey in all its variations, but I noticed particularly a tiny gold satin, jot-embroidered hat with a black dress; a pink satin cravat with a grey suit; and a close-fitting little hat, almost like a jockey's cap, in vivid yellow, contrasted with a three-piece ensemble in black and white wool suiting. This last outfit comprised a long flowing top cont, and black jacketed suit. The peplum of the incket was detachable, making it appear to be two entirely different sults.

This is another point emphasised throughout the show: with an eye to travellers and their luggage, most of those travel clothes were designed cunningly to contain two or three outfits in one. And the have no rival for crease-resisting quality. Before you completely discard the idea of wearing wool, think for a moment about sitting in a train or an aeroplane in a linen suit. Is it going, to emerge at the end of its journey as uncreased and immaculate as it began?

For those who prefer the short "topper," there was one in grey check tweed worn over a plain grey suit. It had a deep cow! which fell back into a wide collar. The model carried large "hold-all" handbag matching tweed, with several useful pockets in it. The line was slim-no obvious bulkiness at all, even in a yellow and grey striped crepe tweed dress which was pleated right round the skirt.

For the woman travelling luxuriously on a liner, we were shown scarlet barathea slacks and a white wool twin set. For the lady, who likes to lounge - voluminous, purple pyjamas were caught in at the ankle, and worm with, slippers which turned up at the toes and set into the material. sported a tinkling bell. Gracious living in small space is achieved in this home by putting living-dining room and kitehen together in an area slightly larger than 11ft, by 24ft, Cooking facilities and kitchen cabinets are concealed from the living room by a partial partition.

The plan of the house makes provision for ample closet room, there being a closet just inside the front entrance, two in the hall connecting bedrooms and bath, and one in each bedroom. An unusual amount of wall space is included in the plan to make it possible for the home-maker to place large pieces of furniture conveniently and attractively.

Planned for building with minimum space this house answers our modern needs. It can be built with a flat roof to suit the local climate without changing the basic construction plan. The carport-terrace is especially recommendable.

This is the time of year to bring salads to table so here are some ideas. Use cooked broccoll stalks (thrifty thought) in your salads. Cut them in julienne strips, marinate, if you like, in French dressing, and serve with green or vegetable salads. Imported cauliflower, raw and crunchy, in little flowerets, is excellent in salads. Cauliflower and broccoli make a good combination. Try them with a little sliced orange, some green pepper and chopped celery with tart dressing.

Escape to Denmark: Germans discover the 'contact man': A leap for life into a gale-swept sea

After many adventures and hairbreadth escapes, Peter Howard and John Clinton, who tunnelled their way out of prison camp Stalag Luft III., have got out of Germany.

Disguised as French workers they made their way to Stettin, a port on the Baltic, where they were smuggled on board a Danish ship by Sigmund, a member of the Danish 'underground.'

It is late October 1943, and we take up the story on their first night out at sea as they lie hidden in the chain locker of the ship.

"FAIR PLAY" REVIEWS THE SOCCER SEASON

By "FAIR PLAY"

With both the Senior and Junior League Championships decided, and the few outstanding league games cancelled, the Football League season is now ended. A brief review of the leading achievements is thus possibly the best way to close this column until next scason rolls around.

South China "A" have been "the team of the season" of course, but great credit must also go to KMB, CAA, and latterly Kitchee, for some sparkling performances. Army, Navy, and Club, too, deserve a pat on the back for being all out triers, always good to watch.

In the Club Competitions, South China "A" reigned supreme, and they won the First Division Championship by a convincing margin. Never headed from the start, they made their position at the top of the table more secure with each match, and it was not until the turn of the year (January 15) . that they conceded their first point to the Police.

SPARE

Look For Ways To Make An Overtrick

BY WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY

ONE of the interesting personalities in bridge circles in New York City is Arthur who was written up in Family Circle Magazine.

Arthur takes bridge very seriously and plays in a great many tournaments. His contract on today's hand was four spades, but that did not stop him' from trying to make an extra trick.

West's opening lend of the six of diamonds was won by East with the nine-spot, East returned the jack of diamonds, which West trumped with the four of spades. West now led back the three of hearts. Jarmel won this trick in dummy with the ace of hearts.

He then led a spade from dummy and took the finesse. Now he laid down the ace of spades and dropped the king. A diamond was led to dummy's ace and a diamond ruffed in Jarmel's hand, which established a good diamond in dummy on which he was able to discard his losing heart. ;

Galbraith YOUR BIRTHDAY.

SATURDAY, MAY 21

DORN today, there is little you may not Dencomplish provided you make the best possible use of the talents which the stars have bequeathed to you. Your nature is, however. a rather restless one and unless you are engaged in some energetic activity at all times, you become upset, bored and even lazy!

You are the type who can make friends and hold them. Many are influential and will be in a position to help you if you show an equal desire to help yourself. Your convictions are very strong, but they may not follow the con-ventional pattern of thinking and because of this you may be considered an "odd stick" by those whose one aim in life is to conform to the

You are not as robust in health as you might wish and hence must be careful. Keep an eye out for the 20th of March. Each year this is apt to prove a fortunate day.

When it comes to romance, you are likely to have more than your share. You of the fair nex will have countless admirers and may have difficulty selecting a life partner.

Middlesex Increase Lead In

County Table NORTHANTS WITH SURREY

London, May 20.-Northamptonshire's failure to gather any points from their match against Surrey which ended today, means that Middlesex's quick victory over Leicestershire yesterday has increased their lead in the Championship table from four to 16 points.

Middlesex have won three of their four matches and taken first innings points from the other for a total of 40 points. Next in the table with 24 points each, come Northamptonshire. Warwickshire and Yorkshire.

Northants have played four matches and won two. Warwickshire, who did not have a match in the present series, have won two out of three, and Yorkshire's victory over Somerset has given them full points from two matches.

The guard troops pledged anew their devotion allegiance with frequent cries of "Tito Hero, Tito hero." In perhaps his firmest words about Russia to date, Tito blamed Russia for the increasingly bitter relations between Yugoslavia and its Cominform neighbours. But, he said, "We are going along the way of building up

Socialism and nothing can stop us. They should understand that." He added: "We have no powerful radio stations propaganda has the means they have. greatest power
